LOCATION OF CAPITAL ADDS MUCH TO CITY

Oklahoma City, June 16.—Location of the state capital in Oklahoma City means that more than $100,000 will come annually into the city from the salaries of state officials and clerks of the various departments alone. Postal receipts will be increased several hundred dollars a month.

State Sunday School Convention
All things are now ready for the great convention of the Oklahoma Sunday School Association which will be held in the big auditorium at Oklahoma City June 29, 30 and 31.

The interest manifested at this time throughout the state gives promise that this will be the best convention ever held in Oklahoma, as well as the largest. Every Sunday school should be represented by at least one delegate, and more if possible. Pastors, superintendents, teachers and other Sunday school officers should embrace this opportunity to hear some of the world's greatest leaders in Sunday school work. Every delegate you send means a live enthusiastic worker for your school all during the year.

Marion Lawrence, the world's foremost leader and general secretary of the World's Association with headquarters in Chicago, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Lawrence has given many years of his life to this work and is a recognized authority everywhere in Sunday school matters. Professor E. O. Excell, author, publisher and great musical leader, who conducted the music at the World's Convention in Washington, recently, where President Taft spoke, will conduct the music, using the same books and his own pianist, who made a great hit at Washington along with Professor Excell. Herbert Mondinger, great teacher training specialist of Cincinnati, founder of thousands of training classes, comes direct from the Holy Land and will give an address at every session. William Nehemiah Wiggins, general secretary of Texas, Mrs. Wiggins and a large number of other prominent speakers will also attend and assist in important conferences. The speakers are all specialists and know how to make the Sunday school go and be there to instruct delegates in up-to-date methods.

You need to know more about the best methods of work and the state convention is the place to get it. All churches will share alike in the sessions, it is an interdenominational convention. Every one interested in better Sunday schools and in bringing more people under the influence of the teaching and training service of the church is cordially invited to attend. For information concerning credentials and entertainment write C. H. Nichols, 128 1/2 West Main street, Oklahoma City.
